

Just as birds leave no tracks in the air those with minds disentangled from the senses find ease in the signless state of liberation which others find so hard to comprehend.

