

There are those that awaken from disorientated actions.
Their light illuminates the world like the moon emerging from behind the parting clouds of an ink black night.

